She was sentenced on or about December 7, 1994, in the Superior Court of the State of California in and for the County of Alameda, for the crime of possession of a controlled substance for sale. She served three years probation. She was discharged on January 30, 1998, having completed her sentence.

William Christopher McIlroy

William Christopher McIlroy, a resident of California, has submitted to this office an application for executive clemency.

He was sentenced on or about October 6, 1972, in the Superior Court of the State of California in and for the County of Santa Clara, for the crime of transportation/manufacture/sale of drugs. He served two years in prison and one year probation. He was discharged on February 5, 1976, having completed his sentence.

William Christopher McIlroy has complied with the provisions of Sections 4852.01 to 4852.2, inclusive, of the Penal Code of California, which provide a procedure whereby persons may, after completion of their sentences, seek restoration of the rights of citizenship, and apply for a pardon. He has obtained from the Superior Court of the State of California in and for the County of Sonoma, an order dated February 24, 2009, evidencing that since his release from custody, he has lived an honest and upright life, exhibited good moral character, and conducted himself as a law-abiding citizen. The court has recommended that he be granted a full pardon.

By the laws of this state it is proper that I, as Governor of the State of California, give testimony that, by completion of his sentence and good conduct in the community of his residence since his release, William Christopher McIlroy has paid his debt to society and earned a full and unconditional pardon.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby grant to William Christopher McIlroy a full and unconditional pardon for the above offense.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 23rd day of December, 2012.

Addendum to Application of Daniel John Ohm for Pardon:

Give a brief account of your offense: I offered to sell cocaine to an undercover police officer.

Explain your rehabilitation efforts during incarceration: During my four months of incarceration in the Orange County Jail, I worked as a cook in the main kitchen and the guard's kitchen. At that time, there were no rehabilitative programs available at the jail.

Describe your record in prison, jail, parole or probation. (List all disciplinary action taken against you): I received no discipline at the jail rather I was an exemplary inmate and a Trustee, and was given an early discharge.

Describe your rehabilitation and activities since release: It has been more than twenty-five years since my conviction, and I have since led a productive and law-abiding life (See bound biographical packet included with this application). At the time of the subject offense, I was suffering from injuries received during my military service, had no work, and faced financial difficulties. I made a poor decision and have suffered the consequences of my actions. Notwithstanding, I have maintained a healthy mind and body, remaining active in sports and martial arts. I have worked for more than ten years in the security industry overseas, including three years with the United States Embassy/Consul in Berlin, Germany as a Senior Diplomatic Security Officer. I have been faithfully married for seven years and blessed with two beautiful children. I am an active congregant at Central Christian Church in Henderson, NV.

Why you requesting a pardon? As noted above, I have worked really hard to put this negative chapter of my life behind me. It is my ambition to secure employment with a reputable security firm in the United States, and to do so, I will need to have my right to carry a firearm restored. I previously sought and obtained relief under P.C. 1203.4 in March 2001 (See attached "Minute Order"), believing that this would enable me to carry a firearm, but thereafter was denied a firearm permit by the Bureau of Security and Investigative Services. I have been offered employment with Blackwater USA & SIS International, subject to my available to obtain the right to carry a firearm.

Nancy Alice Overall

Nancy Alice Overall, a resident of California, has submitted to this office an application for executive clemency.

She was sentenced on or about February 3, 1992, in the Superior Court of the State of California in and for the County of Los Angeles, for the crime of possession of a controlled substance for sale. She served eleven months in prison and one year on parole and, having completed her sentence, was discharged on March 18, 1994.

Nancy Alice Overall has complied with the provisions of Sections 4852.01 to 4852.2, inclusive, of the Penal Code of California, which provide a procedure whereby persons may, after completion of their sentences, seek restoration of the rights of citizenship, and apply for a pardon. She has obtained from the Superior Court of the State of California in and for the County of Tehama, an order dated November 25, 2002, evidencing that since her release from custody, she has lived an honest and upright life, exhibited good moral character, and conducted herself as a law-abiding citizen. The court has recommended that she be granted a full pardon.

By the laws of this state it is proper that I, as Governor of the State of California, give testimony that, by completion of her sentence and good conduct in the community of her residence since her release, Nancy Alice Overall has paid her debt to society and earned a full and unconditional pardon.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby grant to Nancy Alice Overall a full and unconditional pardon for the above offense.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 6th day of April, 2012.

Richard Pieri

Richard Pieri, a resident of California, has submitted to this office an application for executive clemency.

He was sentenced on or about June 13, 1988, in the Superior Court of the State of California in and for the County of Santa Clara, for the crime of possession of a controlled substance for sale. He served one year, six months in prison and two years parole. He was discharged on August 7, 1992, having completed his sentence.

Richard Pieri has complied with the provisions of Sections 4852.01 to 4852.2, inclusive, of the Penal Code of California, which provide a procedure whereby persons may, after completion of their sentences, seek restoration of the rights of citizenship, and apply for a pardon. He has obtained from the Superior Court of the State of California in and for the County of Santa Clara, an order dated August 29, 2007, evidencing that since his release from custody, he has lived an honest and upright life, exhibited good moral character, and conducted himself as a law-abiding citizen. The court has recommended that he be granted a full pardon.

By the laws of this state it is proper that I, as Governor of the State of California, give testimony that, by completion of his sentence and good conduct in the community of his residence since his release, Richard Pieri has paid his debt to society and earned a full and unconditional pardon.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby grant to Richard Pieri a full and unconditional pardon for the above offense.

William Carl Sias

William Carl Sias, a resident of California, has submitted to this office an application for executive clemency.

He was sentenced on or about July 2, 1976, in the Superior Court of the State of California in and for the County of Los Angeles, for the crime of possession and sale of marijuana. He served two years probation and, having completed his sentence, was discharged on June 28, 1978.

William Carl Sias has complied with the provisions of Sections 4852.01 to 4852.2, inclusive, of the Penal Code of California, which provide a procedure whereby persons may, after completion of their sentences, seek restoration of the rights of citizenship, and apply for a pardon. He has obtained from the Superior Court of the State of California in and for the County of Los Angeles, an order dated January 14, 1994, evidencing that since his release from custody, he has lived an honest and upright life, exhibited good moral character, and conducted himself as a law-abiding citizen. The court has recommended that he be granted a full pardon.

By the laws of this state it is proper that I, as Governor of the State of California, give testimony that, by completion of his sentence and good conduct in the community of his residence since his release, William Carl Sias has paid his debt to society and earned a full and unconditional pardon.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby grant to William Carl Sias a full and unconditional pardon for the above offense.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 6th day of April, 2012.

Leonard Wilson-Banks II

Leonard Wilson-Banks II, a resident of Arkansas, has submitted to this office an application for executive clemency. Mr. Banks has served as a chaplain at an Arkansas state prison for the past 11 years. He is currently 76 years old.

He was sentenced on or about June 2, 1960, in the Superior Court of the State of California in and for the County of Alameda, for the crime of possession of narcotics, two counts. He was also sentenced on or about April 25, 1969, in the County of Alameda, for the crime of robbery in the first degree with a prior felony. He was discharged on July 5, 1975, having completed his sentence.

Mr. Wilson-Banks has complied with the provisions of Sections 4852.01 to 4852.2, inclusive, of the Penal Code of California, which provide a procedure whereby persons may, after completion of their sentences, seek restoration of the rights of citizenship, and apply for a pardon. He has obtained from the Superior Court of the State of California in and for the County of Alameda, an order dated May 15, 1980, evidencing that since his release from custody, he has lived an honest and upright life, exhibited good moral character, and conducted himself as a law-abiding citizen. The court has recommended that he be granted a full pardon.

Furthermore, he received a recommendation for pardon by a majority of the justices of the Supreme Court of California, received December 2, 1982, as required by Article V, Section 8(a) of the California Constitution.

By the laws of this state it is proper that I, as Governor of the State of California, give testimony that, by completion of his sentence and good conduct in the community of his residence since his release, Leonard Wilson-Banks II has paid his debt to society and earned a full and unconditional pardon.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby grant to Leonard Wilson-Banks II a full and unconditional pardon for the above offenses.

> IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th day of December, 2012.

JUDGE OF THE SUPERIOR COURT

SHIRLEY REE SMITH COMMUTATION OF SENTENCE

Shirley Ree Smith has applied for executive clemency. In December 1997, she was convicted in the Los Angeles County Superior Court of the crime of assault on a child causing death and sentenced to 15 years to life. (Penal Code, § 273ab.)

While incarcerated, Ms. Smith challenged her conviction in state court, and then in federal court. In 2006, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals concluded that there was insufficient evidence of guilt. In overturning her conviction, the court explained that the evidence presented at her trial, "is simply not the stuff from which guilt beyond a reasonable doubt can be established, especially in the face of all other circumstances, . . . making the crime unlikely." (Smith v. Mitchell (2006) 437 F.3d 884, 890.) The court determined that "there has very likely been a miscarriage of justice in this case." Based on that determination, Ms. Smith was released from prison after serving eight years and six months.

Ms. Smith has been free from custody since 2006 while numerous federal judicial proceedings evaluated whether her conviction should be reinstated. On October 31, 2011, the United States Supreme Court issued its final opinion and ordered her conviction to be reinstated. But in doing so, a majority of the Court acknowledged that "[d]oubts about whether Smith is in fact guilty are understandable" and that Ms. Smith's case may be appropriate for executive clemency "to help ensure that justice is tempered with mercy." (Cavazos v. Smith (2011) 132 S.Ct. 2, 7.)

When Ms. Smith was convicted, she was 37 years old and had no criminal record. Now, she is 51 years old and has been law-abiding since her release in 2006.

From my review of the information before me, including materials from the Los Angeles District Attorney's Office, it is clear that significant doubts surround Ms. Smith's conviction. In light of the unusual circumstances in this particular case, the length of time Ms. Smith has served in prison, and the evidence before me that Ms. Smith has been law-abiding since her release from prison, I conclude that reducing her sentence to time served is appropriate.

THEREFORE, I, Edmund G. Brown Jr., Governor of the State of California, pursuant to the authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, hereby grant to Shirley Ree Smith a commutation of sentence to time served.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 6th day of April, 2012.

Statement in Support of Application for Commutation of Sentence for Shirley Ree Smith

On December 8, 1997, Shirley Ree Smith was convicted of assault on a child causing death, in violation of California Penal Code Section 273ab. She was subsequently sentenced to 15 years to life in prison.

In the fall of 1996, Ms. Smith, her daughter, Tomeka Smith and Tomeka's two children, Yandale and Yolanda, moved from Illinois to Los Angeles, California. On October 10, 1996, Tomeka Smith gave birth to Etzel Smith, a 5 pound, 4 ounce baby boy.

On the evening of November 29, 1996, Ms. Smith, her daughter, Tomeka, and Tomeka's children were staying at a relative's apartment in the Los Angeles area. That evening Tomeka placed Etzel on the living room couch to sleep, the same room in which Ms. Smith and Tomeka's two other children were sleeping. Tomeka went to sleep a few feet away in a nearby bedroom.

In the early morning hours of November 30, 1996, Ms. Smith awoke to find Etzel unresponsive and not breathing. Ms. Smith rushed into the bedroom holding Etzel and told Tomeka to call 911.

Firefighters received the 911 call and responded promptly to the apartment where they observed the baby lying on the bed, clothed, warm, but not breathing and with no heartbeat. The emergency personnel did not observe any external injuries to the baby. They began CPR and other resuscitative efforts, without success. The infant was taken by ambulance to a nearby hospital in full arrest, with no pulse, respiration or blood pressure. The attending physician at the hospital thereafter pronounced the infant dead and indicated that the cause of death was Sudden Infant Death Syndrome ("SIDS"), a death with no known cause.

An autopsy of the infant was performed by Dr. Stephanie Erlich, an associate deputy medical examiner, who was not board certified in forensic pathology and who had never performed an autopsy on an infant who had died of suspected Shaken Baby Syndrome. At autopsy, a small amount of recent bleeding (approximately 1 - 2 tablespoons) was found on the brain. There was also evidence of old subdural bleeding, and both old and new bleeding around the optic nerves. Also there was a small abrasion, approximately 1/16 x 3/16 of an inch, on the lower skull and a recent bruise below this abrasion. No photographs were taken of the blood on the brain and no photographs were taken of the bruise inside the scalp. Dr. Eugene Carpenter, Jr., supervised the autopsy of the infant, but was not physically present until Dr. Erlich observed the small amount of blood on the brain. Based upon these findings, Carpenter and Erlich reported to authorities that they had concluded that the infant died as a result of violant shaking causing instant death. Ms. Smith was charged with the crime.

At trial, both Dr. Carpenter and Dr. Erlich agreed that the two most common causes of death in Shaken Baby Syndrome cases are massive bleeding within an infant's skull or massive swelling of an infant's brain, both causing the brainstem to be crushed resulting in the infant's death. Both doctors agreed that the infant did not die as a result of massive bleeding nor massive swelling of his brain. Both doctors agreed that in Shaken Baby Syndrome cases there is usually other evidence of physical trauma to the infant, including fractured bones, displacement or dislocation of the infant's joints, and/or hemorrhaging of the joints in the neck. Both doctors agreed that Etzel did not suffer from any fractured bones, did not have any displaced or dislocated joints, nor did he have any hemorrhaging of the joints in the neck.

Both doctors also agreed that the small amount of blood on the brain, the old and new subdural hemorrhages, and the hemorrhaging around the optic nerves were not in isolation or in combination the cause of death of the infant.

Despite the absence of physical findings which both doctors admitted were normally present in cases involving Shaken Baby Syndrome, Carpenter and Erlich testified at trial that the infant's death was caused by the shearing or tearing of the brainstem or the brain itself, as a result of violent shaking. The autopsy, however, had revealed no physical evidence of such injury, either grossly or microscopically. Dr. Carpenter was unable to identify which particular areas of the brain were injured. The neuropathological examination, which was performed after the autopsy, did not produce any evidence of specific brain injury. Neither Dr. Erlich nor Dr. Carpenter located any observable tear or shearing of the brain or the brainstem. In fact, neither Dr. Erlich nor Dr. Carpenter cut open Etzel's brainstem nor did they submit the brainstem for neuropathological examination, because, in their own words, "we wouldn't have seen anything anyway."

Neither doctor testified to ever having performed an autopsy on an infant in which they had reached a similar conclusion, nor did either physician refer to any medical literature supporting their conclusion that instant shearing or tearing of the brainstem or the brain, without supporting physical findings, could have caused Etzel's death. The doctors conclusions turned on, as Dr. Erlich testified, "[d]irect trauma which we don't see to the brainstem." Dr. Erlich conceded that "[i]t is a difficult concept to absorb."

The state failed to present any forensic or other scientific evidence to support the conclusions reached by Carpenter and Erlich. Moreover, it was uncontroverted that Ms. Smith had no history of violence, no history of any social problems, no history of any child abuse upon her children or her grandchildren, no history or infliction of corporal punishment upon her children or grandchildren and no evidence of a predisposition to commit the violent act attributed to her. The infant, Etzel, had no history of any abuse and presented at the hospital with no observable evidence of any physical abuse.

The state failed to present any motive or precipitating event that might have led Ms.

Smith to shake Etzel violently. While caregivers have certainly been known to shake crying infants, no evidence was presented to show that Etzel was crying in the hours before he died. In fact, any loud crying would have awoken his siblings in the same room and his mother, who was asleep in the nearby bedroom. No one was disturbed prior to Ms. Smith finding Etzel unresponsive.

After Ms. Smith had been convicted and sentenced, she exhausted her post-conviction remedies in the California state courts prior to filing a petition for writ of habeas corpus in the United States District Court for the Central District of California in 2001. After briefing, Magistrate Judge Patrick J. Walsh recommended to the district court that the petition be denied but, in so doing, he described the troubling state of the evidence in the case as follows:

This is not the typical shaken baby case. Grandmothers, especially those not serving as the primary care-takers, are not the typical perpetrators. Further, Petitioner was helping her daughter raise her other children (a 2-year-old and a 14-month-old) and there was no hint of Petitioner abusing or neglecting these other children, who were in the room with Etzel when he died. Still further, there was no evidence of any precipitating event that might have caused Petitioner to snap and assault her grandson. She was not trapped in a hopeless situation with a child she did not want or love. Nor was she forced to single- handedly care for a baby that had been crying all day and all night. In fact, there is no evidence that Etzel was doing anything other than sleeping the night that he died. The medical evidence was not typical either, in that some of the telltale signs usually found in shaken baby cases did not exist in this case.

See Exh. A., Smith v. Mitchell, 437 F.3d 884, 889 (9th Cir. 2006)

Ms. Smith appealed the district court's denial of her petition to the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, asserting that her conviction violated due process because the evidence was constitutionally insufficient.

After reviewing the evidence presented at trial by the state, the Ninth Circuit agreed with Ms. Smith that no rational trier of fact could have found beyond a reasonable doubt that she had caused the child's death. The court further found that the state court's affirmance of Ms. Smith's conviction constituted an unreasonable application of Jackson v. Virginia, 443 U.S. 307, 319 (1979), which established the standard for constitutional sufficiency of evidence.

First, the Ninth Circuit found that there was no non-medical evidence supporting the state's assertion that Ms. Smith had killed the infant. The court concluded that any constitutionally permissible finding of guilt in the case therefore depended upon the state's expert testimony concerning the cause of death.

In reviewing the expert testimony by the state, that being the testimony of Carpenter and Erlich, the Ninth Circuit stated:

There is no question that the prosecution experts testified that a shaking had caused the death, but they conceded the absence of the usual indicators of violent shaking such as bruises on the body, fractured arms or ribs, or retinal bleeding. There was bleeding on the brain, both old and new, but not enough to cause death. All of the prosecution witnesses based their opinion of Shaken Baby Syndrome on their hypothesis that violent shaking had tom or sheared the brain stem in an undetectable way. Their testimony was not that the brain demonstrated death in the usual manner of Shaken Baby Syndrome, caused by excessive bleeding or swelling that crushes the brain stem. Instead, their testimony was that death was caused by shearing or tearing of the brain stem and they reached this conclusion because there was no evidence in the brain itself of the cause of death. Thus, as the defense expert, Dr. Siegler stated, the tearing might have occurred or it might not have occurred; there is simply no evidence to permit an expert conclusion one way or the other on the point. This is simply not the stuff from which guilt beyond a reasonable doubt can be established, especially in the face of all other circumstances, many of which were recited by the magistrate judge, making the crime unlikely. An expert's testimony as to a theoretical conclusion or inference does not rescue a case that suffers from an underlying insufficiency of evidence to convict beyond a reasonable doubt. (citation omitted)

Exh. A., Smith at 890.

The Ninth Circuit reversed the judgment of the district court and remanded the case with instructions to grant the writ. In 2006, after the district court granted the writ and set aside Ms. Smith's underlying conviction and sentence, Ms. Smith was released from custody having served some ten years in prison.

Unfortunately, the decision by the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals overturning Ms.

Smith's state court conviction was simply the beginning of an unfortunate tug-of-war between the Ninth Circuit and the United States Supreme Court. For more than six years, Ms. Smith's case moved from the Ninth Circuit to the United States Supreme Court, which granted a petition for writ of certiorari filed by the state on two separate occasions, with the court vacating the Ninth Circuit's decision and remanding the case to the circuit court for reconsideration. Twice the Ninth Circuit reinstated the decision it reached in 2006. In 2011, the Supreme Court reviewed Ms. Smith's case for a third time. On October 31, 2011, the court issued a per curiam opinion reversing the Ninth Circuit's decision setting aside Ms. Smith's conviction. See, Exhibit B., Cavazos v. Smith, 565 U.S. _____(2011).

That battle of judicial wills was rooted in differences not over Ms. Smith's guilt or innocence of the charged crime, but in a conflict between the justices concerning the role of federal courts in habeas corpus cases filed by state prisoners. The per curiam majority acknowledged that "[d]oubts about whether Smith is in fact guilty are understandable. But it is not the job of this court, and was not that of the Ninth Circuit to decide whether the state's theory was correct." Exh. B, Cavazos at 7.

The majority went on to state the following:

It is said that Smith, who already has served years in prison, has been punished enough, and that she poses no danger to society. These or other considerations perhaps would be grounds to seek clemency, a prerogative granted to executive authorities to help ensure that justice is tempered by mercy. It is not clear to the Court whether this process has been invoked, or, if so, what its course has been. It is not for the Judicial Branch to determine the standards for this discretion. If the clemency power is exercised in either too generous or too stingy a way, that calls for political correctives, not judicial intervention.

Exh. B, Cavazos at 8.

Justice Ginsburg, joined by Justice Bryer and Justice Sotomayor, dissented. Justice Ginsburg pointed out that there is reason to question the Carpenter-Erlich cause of death theory due to changes in the thinking of the medical community concerning Shaken Baby Syndrome.

Justice Ginsburg stated:

...Doubt has increased in the medical community "over whether infants can be fatally injured through shaking alone." State v. Edmunds, 2008 WI App. 33, ¶15, 308 Wis. 2d 374, 385, 746 N. W. 2d 590, 596. See, e.g., Donohoe, Evidence- Based Medicine and Shaken Baby Syndrome, Part I: Literature Review, 1966-1998, 24 Am. J. that "the commonly held opinion that the finding of [subdural hemorrhage] and [retinal hemorrhage] in an infant was strong evidence of SBS was unsustainable,"); Bandak, Shaken Baby Syndrome: A Biomechanic's Analysis of Injury Mechanisms, 151 Forensic Sci. Int'l 71, 78 (2005) ("head acceleration and velocity levels commonly reported for SBS generate forces that are far too great for the infant neck to withstand without injury [A]n SBS diagnosis in an infant ... without cervical spine or brain stem injury is questionable and other causes of the intracerebral injury must be considered."); Minns, Shaken Baby Syndrome: Theoretical and Evidential Controversies, 35 J. Royal College of Physicians of Edinburgh 5, 10 (2005) ("[D]iagnosing 'shaking' as a mechanism of injury ... is not possible, because these are unwitnessed injuries that may be incurred by a whole variety of mechanisms solely or in combination."); Uscinski, Shaken Baby Syndrome: An Odyssey, 46 Neurol. Med. Chir. (Tokyo) 57, 59 (2006) ("[T]he hypothetical mechanism of manually shaking infants in such a way as to cause intracranial injury is based on a misinterpretation of an experiment done for a different purpose, and contrary to the laws of injury biomechanics as they apply specifically to the infant anatomy."); Leestma, Case Analysis of Brain-Injured Admittedly Shaken Infants, 54 Cases, 1969-2001, 26 Am. J. Forensic Med. & Pathology 199, 211 (2005) ("[M]ost of the pathologies in allegedly shaken babies are due to impact injuries to the head and body."); Squier, Shaken Baby Syndrome: The Quest for Evidence, 50 Developmental Med. & Child Neurology 10, 13 (2008) ("[H]ead impacts onto carpeted floors and steps from heights in the 1 to 3 feet range result in far greater ... forces and accelerations than shaking and slamming onto either a sofa or a bed.").

Exh. B, Cavazos, Ginsberg dissent, pg. 5

Justice Ginsberg also noted that Ms. Smith had been represented "poorly at trial. In a case as trying as this one, competent counsel might have persuaded the jury to disbelieve the prosecution's case." Id. at pg. 8. In the view of the dissenting justices, "[w]hat is now known about shaken baby syndrome (SBS) casts grave doubt on the charge leveled against Smith; and uncontradicted evidence shows that she poses no danger whatever to her family or anyone else in society." Id. at pg. 3.

Given the paucity of evidence supporting Ms. Smith's finding of guilt, the fact that she has been a law-abiding citizen for more than 50 years, save this single conviction, and given the fact that she has served more than ten years in custody for a conviction about which the U.S. Supreme Court acknowledges "doubts" about her guilt, it is respectfully requested that the Governor commute Ms. Smith's sentence to a time-served sentence, allowing the conviction to stand, but directing that she not be reincarcerated as a result of the conviction.

Shirley Ree Smith,

Petitioner-Appellant,

v.

GWENDOLYN MITCHELL, Warden, Respondent-Appellee. No. 04-55831 D.C. No. CV-01-04484-ABC OPINION

Appeal from the United States District Court for the Central District of California Audrey B. Collins, District Judge, Presiding

Argued and Submitted February 8, 2005—Pasadena, California

Filed February 9, 2006

Before: Harry Pregerson and William C. Canby, Jr., Circuit Judges, and Edward C. Reed, Jr.,* District Judge.

Opinion by Judge Canby

^{*}The Honorable Edward C. Reed, Jr., Senior United States District Judge for the District of Nevada, sitting by designation.

COUNSEL

Michael J. Brennan, Manhattan Beach, California, for the petitioner-appellant.

Richard T. Breen, Deputy Attorney General, Los Angeles, California, for the respondent-appellee.

CANBY, Circuit Judge:

Shirley Ree Smith appeals the district court's denial of her habeas corpus petition. The State of California convicted Smith of assault on a child resulting in death. The state courts affirmed her conviction. Smith then filed this federal habeas petition claiming that her conviction violated due process because the evidence was constitutionally insufficient. On appeal, Smith focuses her argument almost exclusively on the absence of constitutionally sufficient evidence of one element of the crime—the cause of the child's death. We agree with Smith that no rational trier of fact could have found beyond a reasonable doubt that Smith caused the child's death. We further conclude that the state court's affirmance of Smith's conviction constituted an unreasonable application of Jackson v. Virginia, 443 U.S. 307, 319 (1979), which established the standard for constitutional sufficiency of the evidence. See 28 U.S.C. § 2254(d)(1). We accordingly reverse and remand with instructions to grant the writ.

Smith is the grandmother of the deceased infant, Etzel. Smith's daughter Tomeka Smith is the mother of the child. Tomeka also had two older children, Yondale and Yolanda. Prior to Etzel's birth, the entire family lived in Illinois. In July 1996, Smith moved to California and brought her two grand-children, Yondale and Yolanda, with her. On October 8, 1996, Tomeka moved to California, where she joined Smith, Yondale, and Yolanda. Two days later, Tomeka gave birth to Etzel.

Tomeka delivered him two weeks early, and he weighed five pounds, four ounces. He was born with jaundice and a slight heart murmur. The murmur disappeared, however, three days after it was diagnosed. The jaundice gradually disappeared, too. Etzel became a healthy baby and showed no signs of child abuse.

Smith, Tomeka, Yondale, Yolanda and Etzel usually stayed with Stephen Keys, Smith's brother. Occasionally, however, they stayed with Renee Townsend, Smith's sister, at Townsend's apartment. Townsend's two children, Marcus and Marcellus lived there as well. When Tomeka and her children stayed at Townsend's apartment, Smith would accompany them to assist Tomeka in taking care of the children. Smith was described as always giving loving care to her grandchildren, and no one had ever seen her act harshly or abusively toward them.

On the night of Etzel's death, the group stayed at Townsend's. Tomeka testified at length about the events of that evening, from her own observations and from what Smith told her as the emergency unfolded and thereafter. The facts as Tomeka related them were not complicated. Etzel, who was approximately seven weeks old at the time, appeared perfectly healthy during the day and at the beginning of the evening. Both Tomeka and Smith fed him.

That night, Tomeka fed, changed, and washed Etzel before rocking him to sleep and laying him on the couch in the living room, placing him on his stomach, with his face to the side. Yondale also slept on the couch. Yolanda slept on the love seat.² Marcus and Marcellus slept in their bedroom.³ Smith slept on the floor, next to the love seat on which Yolanda slept.

Townsend left the apartment at roughly the same time that Tomeka placed Etzel on the couch. Tomeka remained in the living room for another hour or so. During this time, she checked Etzel's diaper while he slept, and she saw that he moved his body at that time. She also moved Etzel back on the couch pillow because his feet started to fall off of it. She then went into Townsend's room to listen to music.

Though Tomeka usually slept in the living room with ¹Smith herself testified very briefly, denying that she had shaken Etzel on the night of his death. She was subjected to almost no cross-examination, and her entire testimony extends for less than three pages of transcript.

²Yondale was approximately fourteen-months old, and Yolanda was approximately four-years old.

³They were seven- and ten-years old, respectively.

Smith and the children, that night she fell asleep in Townsend's room while listening to music. She left the door to Townsend's room open, at least partially. Tomeka testified that she fell asleep around midnight. She also stated that it was the first night that she slept in a different room from Etzel. At approximately 1:30 a.m., Smith awoke and found Etzel on the floor. She picked him up, rocked him back to sleep, and placed him on the couch in the same position (stomach down, head to the side). She did not notice anything unusual about him.

At 3:20 a.m., Smith awoke again because she had to go to the bathroom. After she returned from the bathroom, she looked at Etzel and saw that he had thrown up and had blood on his right nostril. He did not respond to her touch. She picked him up and his head "flopped back." She moved him back and forth, but he did not respond. She then went into Townsend's room carrying Etzel. She woke Tomeka and told her what had happened. Tomeka dialed 911. Over the phone, Tomeka and Smith were instructed to give Etzel CPR, which they did.

When firefighters and paramedics arrived, Smith was "apprehensive" and stated that she thought Etzel had fallen off the couch. Etzel was clothed and warm, but he was not breathing and had no heartbeat. The paramedics began CPR. Three of the rescue squad noticed blood in one of Etzel's nostrils, and one consequently thought Etzel had suffered an injury. When an ambulance arrived, two more technicians administered CPR on the way to the hospital. Etzel appeared "chalky." They arrived at the hospital at 3:50 a.m. Etzel was ⁴Smith demonstrated this "jostle" to a social worker, who testified at trial. The social worker stated that Smith demonstrated picking up the baby under his arms and moving him quickly forward and back in a smooth motion. Smith later told police that she had given him a little shake, but then she corrected herself, saying she had "twisted" him slowly from side to side.

in full cardiac arrest. The attending physician pronounced him dead and suspected he died of Sudden Infant Death Syndrome ("SIDS"), a death with no known cause.

It was the theory of the prosecution, however, that this recitation of facts left out one crucial occurrence: Smith must have shaken Etzel so violently that it caused his death. The evidence offered in support of this theory was the autopsy and the controverted expert testimony, based on that autopsy, that Etzel died of Shaken Baby Syndrome. The physical evidence, however, was not typical of that usually associated with Shaken Baby Syndrome.

Associate Deputy Medical Examiner Dr. Stephanie Erlich performed the autopsy on Etzel.⁶ She testified, as did her supervisor, Dr. Eugene Carpenter, who participated in parts of the autopsy.⁷ They found recent subdural and subarachnoid hemorrhages (i.e., bleeding on the brain). There was also evidence of old subdural bleeding, and both old and new bleeding around the optic nerves. There was in addition a recent small abrasion, approximately 1/16 by 3/16 of an inch, on the lower skull, upper neck region, and a recent bruise beneath this abrasion. Etzel's heart was normal.

All of the expert testimony offered by both sides agreed that the amount of recent bleeding (approximately one or two tablespoons) was not sufficient to have caused death, nor was the small abrasion sufficient for that purpose. To the prosecution experts, however, the presence of blood supported the ⁵Shaken Baby Syndrome is also known as Shaken Infant Syndrome or SIS. We use the Shaken Baby terminology to avoid confusion with Sudden Infant Death Syndrome or SIDS.

⁶This was Dr. Erlich's first autopsy in a child abuse case. She was assigned the autopsy because Etzel was originally believed to be the victim of Sudden Infant Death Syndrome.

⁷Dr. Carpenter was a Medical Examiner and forensic pathologist for the Los Angeles County Coroner. He had performed 3,000 to 4,000 autopsies.

diagnosis of Shaken Baby Syndrome. There was no dispute, however, that the usual Shaken Baby Syndrome death occurs from massive bleeding or swelling of brain tissue that creates such crushing pressure against the brain stem that vital processes are interrupted and the baby dies. It was also agreed that in 80% or more of the cases of Shaken Baby Syndrome, there is bleeding in the retinas of the eyes. There are also frequently fractures in the arms or similar evidences of violence.

There was no swelling, and only a small, non-fatal amount of bleeding, in Etzel's case. Etzel had no retinal bleeding, and no fractures or large bodily bruises common in cases of shaking. The scalp abrasion was minimal, and was not even discovered until well into the autopsy.

The prosecution experts testified, however, that shaking caused the death even though the physical examination of the brain during and after autopsy could not demonstrate that fact. The experts testified that the shaking must have been so violent and severe that it directly tore or sheared parts of the brain stem, causing immediate cessation of vital activity such as breathing. This tear in the brain stem would not have been apparent in autopsy, according to the prosecution experts, because instantaneous death would have prevented any bleeding or swelling. No microscopic examination of the brainstem was performed following the autopsy because, as Dr. Erlich testified, "[W]e wouldn't have seen anything anyway." The fatal tear or shearing would not have been detectable. Dr. Ehrlich could not identify any source in the literature for her hypothesis of undetectable brain stem shearing, but said she had learned it from lectures and consultations.

With regard to this undetectable cause of death, defense expert Dr. Richard Siegler, said that the hypothesis was "fantasy." When pressed by the prosecutor to elaborate, he said: "[W]hat you have said is possible, but it is also not possible and that's what we call fantasy. . . . There is no way to confirm it or deny it." Dr. Siegler stated that he had not previously heard or read of the hypothesis of undetectable brain stem injury in a Shaken Baby death. Dr. Seigler opined that Etzel died from the lingering effects of earlier brain trauma of unknown but quite possibly innocent cause, and that his death was inconsistent with Shaken Baby Syndrome.

⁸In addition to Drs. Ehrlich and Carpenter, Dr. David Chadwick, a pediatrician specializing in abuse, also testified for the prosecution. His testimony was briefer than, but generally paralleled, that of Drs. Ehrlich and Carpenter.

The defense also presented Dr. William Goldie, who examined the records and testified that Etzel likely died of SIDS. Dr. Goldie, like Dr. Siegler, did not believe that Shaken Baby Syndrome could occur without massive brain swelling or bleeding, at least not when the brain stem appeared undamaged, as Etzel's did. He noted that prematurely born infants sometimes bleed into the head without cause. Dr. Goldie testified that SIDS was the leading cause of deaths in infants from one to five months of age, while Shaken Baby Syndrome deaths occur predominantly in ages four to nine months.

Dr. Goldie described some of the characteristics that led him to conclude that Etzel died of Sudden Infant Death Syndrome. With SIDS, the infant usually would appear normal, but then he or she suddenly would die. SIDS occurred more frequently in babies who, like Etzel, were small for their age, who had mothers who had multiple children already or smoked or used drugs, and, most importantly, who had been placed face-down on their stomachs. Males were more likely victims than females. He also concluded that Etzel's problems—jaundice, heart murmur, and low birth weight—made him more likely to die from SIDS, as did a background of poverty.

⁹Dr. Siegler was a pathologist of many years experience associated with the University of Southern California, and formerly with Harvard and U.C.L.A. He had done 5,000 to 8,000 autopsies, about 50 of which were infants.

II

On this evidence, a jury of the Superior Court of Los Angeles County convicted Smith of assault on a child causing death, in violation of section 273ab of the California Penal Code. The trial judge sentenced her to fifteen years to life in prison. Smith appealed, challenging the sufficiency of the evidence. The California Court of Appeal affirmed in an unpublished opinion, and the Supreme Court of California denied review.

Smith filed a petition for habeas corpus in the Central District of California. A magistrate judge recommended dismissal, and the district court dismissed the petition. The court, however, granted a certificate of appealability on the question "[w]hether there was sufficient evidence to convict [Smith] of committing assault on a child in her care or custody causing death."

III

We review de novo the district court's denial of a habeas petition. See Clark v. Murphy, 331 F.3d 1062, 1067 (9th Cir. 2003). We approach this case with a firm awareness of the very strict limits that the Antiterrorism and Effective Death Penalty Act ("AEDPA") places on our collateral review of state criminal convictions. See Juan H. v. Allen, 408 F.3d 1262, 1269-70 (9th Cir. 2005), cert. denied, 2006 WL 88993, 88994 (U.S. Jan. 17, 2006). We cannot grant relief unless the decision of the California Court of Appeal was "contrary to,

Any person who, having the care or custody of a child who is under eight years of age, assaults the child by means of force that to a reasonable person would be likely to produce great bodily injury, resulting in the child's death, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state prison for [fifteen] years to life.

CAL. PENAL CODE § 273ab.

¹⁰Section 273ab provides the following:

or involved an unreasonable application of, clearly established Federal law, as determined by the Supreme Court of the United States" or "was based on an unreasonable determination of the facts in light of the evidence presented in the State court proceeding." 28 U.S.C. § 2254(d). The constitutional standard for sufficiency of the evidence established by the Supreme Court is "whether, after viewing the evidence in the light most favorable to the prosecution, any rational trier of fact could have found the essential elements of the crime beyond a reasonable doubt." Jackson v. Virginia, 443 U.S. at 319. Our task under AEDPA, then, is to determine whether the decision of the California Court of Appeal, holding that the evidence was sufficient to convict Smith, was an unreasonable application of Jackson. See 28 U.S.C. § 2254(d); see also Juan H. v. Allen, 408 F.3d at 1274-75 & nn. 12-13 (establishing that AEDPA requires a layer of deference to a state court decision in addition to that specified by Jackson). In this most unusual case, we conclude that the Court of Appeal unreasonably applied Jackson.

IV

[1] The troubling state of the evidence in this case was perhaps best described by Magistrate Judge Patrick J. Walsh. Even though, contrary to our view, he believed the strict requirements of AEDPA for habeas relief had not been met, Judge Walsh stated:

This is not the typical shaken baby case. Grandmothers, especially those not serving as the primary caretakers, are not the typical perpetrators. Further, Petitioner was helping her daughter raise her other children (a 2-year-old and a 14-month-old) and there was no hint of Petitioner abusing or neglecting these other children, who were in the room with Etzel when he died. Still further, there was no evidence of any precipitating event that might have caused Petitioner to snap and assault her grandson. She was not trapped in a hopeless situation with a child she did not want or love. Nor was she forced to singlehandedly care for a baby that had been crying all day and all night. In fact, there is no evidence that Etzel was doing anything other than sleeping the night that he died. The medical evidence was not typical either, in that some of the telltale signs usually found in shaken baby cases did not exist in this case.

Nothing significant in the background suggests guilt, therefore, and many factors suggest innocence." Indeed, not only was there no evidence of any "precipitating event that might have caused [Smith] to snap," but it is extremely unlikely that even a very troublesome act by seven-week-old Etzel would cause Smith to shake Etzel to death when his mother lay but a few feet away and easily available. A constitutionally permissible finding of guilt in this case therefore depends on the expert evidence of the cause of death.

[2] There is no question that the prosecution experts testified that a shaking had caused the death, but they conceded the absence of the usual indicators of violent shaking such as bruises on the body, fractured arms or ribs, or retinal bleeding. There was bleeding on the brain, both old and new, but not enough to cause death. All of the prosecution witnesses based their opinion of Shaken Baby Syndrome on their hypothesis that violent shaking had torn or sheared the brain stem in an undetectable way. Their testimony was not that the brain demonstrated death in the usual manner of Shaken Baby Syndrome, caused by excessive bleeding or swelling that crushes the brain stem. Instead, their testimony was that death was caused by shearing or tearing of the brain stem and they reached this conclusion because there was no evidence in the brain itself of the cause of death. Thus, as the defense expert Dr. Siegler stated, the tearing might have occurred or it might not have occurred; there simply was no evidence to permit an expert conclusion one way or the other on the point. This is simply not the stuff from which guilt beyond a reasonable doubt can be established, especially in the face of all the other circumstances, many of which were recited by the magistrate judge, making the crime unlikely. An expert's testimony as to a theoretical conclusion or inference does not rescue a case that suffers from an underlying insufficiency of evidence to convict beyond a reasonable doubt. See United States v. Boissoneault, 926 F.2d 230, 234 (2d Cir. 1991).

¹¹A social worker, who visited Smith and Tomeka and expressed the view that Etzel had died of shaking, testified that Smith said "Oh, my God. Did I do it?" A rational trier of fact, however, could not convict on this distraught and equivocal statement in the absence of credible expert testimony as to the cause of death.

[3] The prosecution's expert testimony, absolutely critical to its case, concluded that the cause of death was tearing or shearing of the brain stem when there was no physical evidence of such tearing or shearing, and no other evidence supporting death by violent shaking. Absence of evidence cannot constitute proof beyond a reasonable doubt.

[4] The California Court of Appeal, in affirming Smith's conviction, described the expert testimony but did not address the problem presented by the lack of evidence, from the autopsy or ensuing tests, that the brain stem had been sheared. It affirmed with a statement that the experts conflicted and resolution of the conflict was for the jury. With all due respect to the California Court of Appeal, and even with the additional layer of deference mandated by AEDPA, we conclude that the Court of Appeal unreasonably applied Jackson when it held the evidence to be sufficient to convict Smith of causing Etzel's death. There was simply no demonstrable support for shaking as the cause of death. As a result of the unreasonable application of Jackson, there has very likely been a miscarriage of justice in this case.

We reverse the judgment of the district court and remand with instructions to grant the writ.

REVERSED; REMANDED with instructions.

Exhibit B

SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES

JAVIER CAVAZOS, ACTING WARDEN v. SHIRLEY REE SMITH

ON PETITION FOR WRIT OF CERTIORARI TO THE UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE NINTH CIRCUIT

No. 10-1115. Decided October 31, 2011

PER CURIAM.

The opinion of the Court in Jackson v. Virginia, 443 U. S. 307 (1979), makes clear that it is the responsibility of the jury—not the court—to decide what conclusions should be drawn from evidence admitted at trial. A reviewing court may set aside the jury's verdict on the ground of insufficient evidence only if no rational trier of fact could have agreed with the jury. What is more, a federal court may not overturn a state court decision rejecting a sufficiency of the evidence challenge simply because the federal court disagrees with the state court. The federal court instead may do so only if the state court decision was "objectively unreasonable." Renico v. Lett, 559 U. S. _____ (2010) (slip op., at 5) (internal quotation marks omitted).

Because rational people can sometimes disagree, the inevitable consequence of this settled law is that judges will sometimes encounter convictions that they believe to be mistaken, but that they must nonetheless uphold. The Court of Appeals in this case substituted its judgment for that of a California jury on the question whether the prosecution's or the defense's expert witnesses more persuasively explained the cause of a death. For this reason, certiorari is granted and the judgment of the Court of Appeals is reversed.

This case concerns the death of 7-week-old Etzel Glass.

On November 29, 1996, Etzel's mother, Tomeka, put Etzel to sleep on a sofa before going to sleep herself in another room. Respondent Shirley Ree Smith—Tomeka's mother—slept on the floor next to Etzel. Several hours later, Smith ran into Tomeka's room, holding Etzel, who was limp, and told her that "[s]omething [was] wrong with Etzel." Tr. 416. By the time emergency officials arrived, Etzel was not breathing and had no heartbeat. Smith reported that she thought Etzel had fallen off the sofa. The officials' efforts to resuscitate Etzel failed.

Doctors initially attributed Etzel's death to sudden infant death syndrome (SIDS), the customary diagnosis when an infant shows no outward signs of trauma. But after an autopsy, the coroner concluded that the cause of death was instead shaken baby syndrome (SBS). When a social worker informed Smith of that finding, Smith told her that Etzel had not responded to her touch while sleeping, so she had picked him up and given him "a little shake, a jostle" to wake him. Id., at 842. According to the social worker, Smith then said something to the effect of, "Oh, my God. Did I do it? Did I do it? Oh, my God." Id., at 847 (internal quotation marks omitted). In an interview with the police a few days later, Smith said that she had shaken Etzel, but then she corrected herself and said that she had twisted him to try to elicit a reaction. Smith was arrested and charged with assault on a child resulting in death. See Cal. Penal Code Ann. §273ab (West 2008) ("Any person who, having the care or custody of a child who is under eight years of age, assaults the child by means of force that to a reasonable person would be likely to produce great bodily injury, resulting in the child's death, shall be punished by imprisonment . . .").

At trial, the jury heard seven days of expert medical testimony on the cause of Etzel's death. The prosecution offered three experts, each of whom attested that Etzel's death was the result of SBS—not SIDS, as the defense contended. The first expert, Dr. Eugene Carpenter, was the medical examiner for the Los Angeles County Coroner who had supervised Etzel's autopsy. Dr. Carpenter is board certified in forensic, anatomic, and clinical pathology. He testified that Etzel's autopsy revealed recent hemorrhages in the brain, and he opined that the bleeding and other features of Etzel's pathology, including a bruise and abrasion on the lower back of the baby's head, were consistent with violent shaking. Dr. Carpenter identified two means by which shaking can result in a baby's death: The first is that the shaking causes blood vessels in the brain to tear, creating a pool of blood that pushes the brain downward into the spinal canal, resulting in death but little direct damage to the brain. The second is that the shaking itself is sufficiently severe that the brain directly tears in vital areas, causing death with very little bleed-Dr. Carpenter testified that Etzel's injuries were consistent with the latter pathology. He also explained that the injuries could not be attributed to either a fall from the sofa or the administration of cardiopulmonary resuscitation. Nor, according to Dr. Carpenter, was it possible that Etzel perished from SIDS, given the signs of internal trauma. Dr. Carpenter did testify, however, that while SBS victims often suffer retinal hemorrhaging, Etzel's autopsy revealed no such injury.

The prosecution's second expert, Dr. Stephanie Erlich, was the associate deputy medical examiner who actually performed Etzel's autopsy. She is board certified in anatomic pathology and neuropathology. She corroborated Dr. Carpenter's testimony about the autopsy findings, and added that a followup neuropathological examination of Etzel's brain confirmed the existence of recent hemorrhaging. Noting only a minimal amount of new blood in Etzel's brain, she testified that the cause of death was direct trauma to the brainstem. On cross-examination, she agreed with defense counsel that retinal hemorrhaging (absent in Etzel's case) is present in 75 to 80 percent of SBS cases.

The third prosecution expert, Dr. David Chadwick, is board certified in pediatrics and the author of articles on childhood death by abusive trauma. He testified that Etzel's injuries were consistent with SBS and that old trauma could not have been the cause of the child's death.

The defense called two experts to dispute these conclusions. The first, pathologist Dr. Richard Siegler, testified that Etzel died from brain trauma, but that it was not the result of SBS, given the lack of retinal hemorrhaging. He admitted on cross-examination, however, that an absence of retinal hemorrhaging does not exclude a finding of SBS. He also acknowledged that he did not believe the cause of Etzel's death was SIDS. According to Dr. Siegler, Etzel died from old trauma, an opinion he reached on the basis of studying photographs of the neuropathological examination.

The other defense expert, pediatric neurologist Dr. William Goldie, testified that Etzel's death was due to SIDS. He noted that Etzel was born with jaundice, a heart murmur, and low birth weight—making him more susceptible to SIDS. Dr. Goldie testified that pathologists had not been able to determine the cause of Etzel's death and that the bleeding could be attributed to the resuscitation efforts.

The jury found Smith guilty. Concluding that the jury "carefully weighed" the "tremendous amount of evidence" supporting the verdict, Tr. 1649, the trial judge denied Smith's motion for a new trial and sentenced her to an indeterminate term of 15 years to life in prison.

On direct review, Smith contended that the evidence was not sufficient to establish that Etzel died from SBS. After thoroughly reviewing the competing medical testimony, the California Court of Appeal rejected this claim, concluding:

"The expert opinion evidence we have summarized was conflicting. It was for the jury to resolve the conflicts. The credited evidence was substantial and sufficient to support the jury's conclusions that Etzel died from shaken baby syndrome. The conviction is supported by substantial evidence." People v. Smith, No. B118869 (Feb. 10, 2000), App. K to Pet. for Cert. 86.

The California Supreme Court denied review. App. J, id., at 74.

Smith then filed this petition for a writ of habeas corpus with the United States District Court for the Central District of California, renewing her claim that the evidence was insufficient to prove that Etzel died of SBS. Under the Antiterrorism and Effective Death Penalty Act of 1996 (AEDPA), 110 Stat. 1214, that court had no power to afford relief unless Smith could show either that the California Court of Appeal's decision affirming the conviction "was contrary to, or involved an unreasonable application of," clearly established federal law as reflected in the holdings of this Court's cases, 28 U. S. C. §2254(d)(1), or that it "was based on an unreasonable determination of the facts" in light of the state court record, §2254(d)(2). Harrington v. Richter, 562 U. S. ___, ___ (2011) (slip op., at 10).

The Magistrate Judge to whom the case was assigned issued a report acknowledging that "[t]his is not the typical shaken baby case" and that the evidence against Smith "raises many questions." App. I to Pet. for Cert. 65. But the Magistrate Judge nevertheless concluded that the evidence was "clearly sufficient to support a conviction." Ibid. The District Court adopted the Magistrate Judge's report and denied the petition. App. G, id., at 52.

On appeal, the Ninth Circuit reversed with instructions to grant the writ. Smith v. Mitchell, 437 F. 3d 884 (2006). Despite the plentitude of expert testimony in the trial record concluding that sudden shearing or tearing of the brainstem was the cause of Etzel's death, the Ninth Circuit determined that there was "no evidence to permit an expert conclusion one way or the other" on that question because there was "no physical evidence of . . . tearing or shearing, and no other evidence supporting death by violent shaking." Id., at 890. The court said that the State's experts "reached [their] conclusion because there was no evidence in the brain itself of the cause of death." Ibid. (emphasis in original). The court concluded that because "[a]bsence of evidence cannot constitute proof beyond a reasonable doubt," ibid., the California Court of Appeal had "unreasonably applied" this Court's opinion in Jackson v. Virginia in upholding Smith's conviction, 437 F. 3d, at 890.

That conclusion was plainly wrong. Jackson says that evidence is sufficient to support a conviction so long as "after viewing the evidence in the light most favorable to the prosecution, any rational trier of fact could have found the essential elements of the crime beyond a reasonable doubt." 443 U. S., at 319. It also unambiguously instructs that a reviewing court "faced with a record of historical facts that supports conflicting inferences must presume—even if it does not affirmatively appear in the record—that the trier of fact resolved any such conflicts in favor of the prosecution, and must defer to that resolution." Id., at 326. When the deference to state court decisions required by §2254(d) is applied to the state court's already deferential review, see Renico, 559 U. S., at ___ (slip op., at 11), there can be no doubt of the Ninth Circuit's error below.

The jury was presented with competing views of how Etzel died. It was made aware of the various experts' qualifications and their familiarity with both the subject of SBS and the physical condition of Etzel's body. It observed the attorneys for each party cross-examine the experts and elicit concessions from them. The State's experts, whom the jury was entitled to believe, opined that the physical evidence was consistent with, and best explained by, death from sudden tearing of the brainstem caused by shaking. The Ninth Circuit's assertion that these experts "reached [their] conclusion because there was no evidence in the brain itself of the cause of death" is simply false. There was "evidence in the brain itself." The autopsy revealed indications of recent trauma to Etzel's brain, such as subdural and subarachnoid hemorrhaging, hemorrhaging around the optic nerves, and the presence of a blood clot between the brain's hemispheres. autopsy also revealed a bruise and abrasion on the lower These affirmative indications of back of Etzel's head. trauma formed the basis of the experts' opinion that Etzel died from shaking so severe that his brainstem tore.

Defense counsel made certain that the jury understood that the prosecution's experts were unable to identify the precise point of tearing itself. But as Judge Bea noted in his dissent from the Ninth Circuit's denial of rehearing en banc, the experts explained why the location of the tear was undetectable: "Etzel's death happened so quickly that the effects of the trauma did not have time to develop." Smith v. Mitchell, 453 F. 3d 1203, 1207 (2006). According to the prosecutions' experts, there was simply no opportunity for swelling to occur around the brainstem before Etzel died.

In light of the evidence presented at trial, the Ninth Circuit plainly erred in concluding that the jury's verdict was irrational, let alone that it was unreasonable for the California Court of Appeal to think otherwise. See §2254(d). Doubts about whether Smith is in fact guilty are understandable. But it is not the job of this Court, and was not that of the Ninth Circuit, to decide whether the State's theory was correct. The jury decided that question, and its decision is supported by the record.*

It is said that Smith, who already has served years in prison, has been punished enough, and that she poses no danger to society. These or other considerations perhaps would be grounds to seek clemency, a prerogative granted to executive authorities to help ensure that justice is tempered by mercy. It is not clear to the Court whether this process has been invoked, or, if so, what its course has been. It is not for the Judicial Branch to determine the standards for this discretion. If the clemency power is exercised in either too generous or too stingy a way, that calls for political correctives, not judicial intervention.

The decision below cannot be allowed to stand. This Court vacated and remanded this judgment twice before, calling the panel's attention to this Court's opinions highlighting the necessity of deference to state courts in §2254(d) habeas cases. Each time the panel persisted in its course, reinstating its judgment without seriously confronting the significance of the cases called to its attention. See Patrick v. Smith, 550 U. S. 915 (vacating and remanding in light of Carey v. Musladin, 549 U. S. 70 (2006)), reinstated on remand, 508 F. 3d 1256 (2007) (per curiam); 558 U. S. ___ (2010) (vacating and remanding in light of McDaniel v. Brown, 558 U. S. ___ (2010) (per curiam)), reinstated on remand sub nom. Smith v. Mitchell, 624 F. 3d 1235 (2010) (per curiam). Its refusal to do so necessitates this Court's action today.

The petition for a writ of certiorari and respondent's

^{*}The dissent's review of the evidence presented to the jury over seven days is precisely the sort of reweighing of facts that is precluded by Jackson v. Virginia, 443 U. S. 307, 324 (1979). and precisely the sort of second-guessing of a state court decision applying Jackson that is precluded by AEDPA, §2254(d). The dissent's views on how "adamantly" experts would testify today as opposed to at the time of trial, post, at 6 (opinion of GINSBURG, J.), are of course pure speculation, as would be any views on how a jury would react to less adamant testimony.

motion to proceed in forma pauperis are granted. The judgment of the Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit is reversed, and the case is remanded for further proceedings consistent with this opinion.

It is so ordered.

SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES

JAVIER CAVAZOS, ACTING WARDEN v. SHIRLEY REE SMITH

ON PETITION FOR WRIT OF CERTIORARI TO THE UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE NINTH CIRCUIT

No. 10-1115. Decided October 31, 2011

JUSTICE GINSBURG, with whom JUSTICE BREYER and JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR join, dissenting.

The Court's summary disposition of this case, in my judgment, is a misuse of discretion. I set out below my reasons for concluding that discretion, soundly exercised, would have occasioned denial of California's petition for review.

The Magistrate Judge who reviewed respondent Shirley Ree Smith's habeas corpus petition in the first instance concluded, as the Court does today, that relief was unwarranted. He observed, however, that the evidence, "though clearly sufficient to support a conviction, raises many questions":

"Grandmothers, especially those not serving as the primary caretakers, are not the typical perpetrators [in shaken baby cases]. Further, [Smith] was helping her daughter raise her other children (a [4-year-old] and a 14-month-old) and there was no hint of [Smith] abusing or neglecting these other children, who were in the room with Etzel when he died. Still further, there was no evidence of any precipitating event that might have caused [Smith] to snap and assault her grandson. She was not trapped in a hopeless situation with a child she did not want or love. Nor was she forced to single-handedly care for a baby that had been crying all day and all night. In fact, there is no evidence that Etzel was doing anything other than sleeping the night he died. In addition, [Smith's] daughter [Tomeka], Etzel's mother, was in the room next door when Etzel died. The medical evidence was not typical either, in that some of the telltale signs usually found in shaken baby cases did not exist in this case." Smith v. Mitchell, Case No. CV 01–4484–ABC (CD Cal., Mar. 22, 2004), p. 10, App. I to Pet. for Cert. 65.

The District Court adopted the Magistrate Judge's recommendation to deny Smith's petition, but granted a certificate of appealability, recognizing that "reasonable jurists would find the [court's] assessment of [Smith's] claims debatable." Order in No. CV 01-4484-ABC (CD Cal., Apr. 29, 2004), Doc. 36, p. 1.

After full briefing and argument, the Ninth Circuit reversed the District Court's judgment. The Court of Appeals acknowledged the limitations on its authority. "We approach this case," the court said, "with a firm awareness of the very strict limits that the [Antiterrorism and Effective Death Penalty Act of 1996 (AEDPA)] places on our collateral review of state criminal convictions." Smith v. Mitchell, 437 F. 3d 884, 888–889 (CA9 2006). Accurately describing the standards applicable under AEDPA and Jackson v. Virginia, 443 U. S. 307 (1979), and reviewing the evidence in some detail, the court concluded that "[i]n this most unusual case,... the [California] Court of Appeal unreasonably applied Jackson." 437 F. 3d, at 889.

Beyond question, the Court today reviews a case as tragic as it is extraordinary and fact intensive. By taking up the case, one may ask, what does the Court achieve other than to prolong Smith's suffering and her separation from her family. Is this Court's intervention really necessary? Our routine practice counsels no.

Error correction is "outside the mainstream of the Court's functions." E. Gressman, K. Geller, S. Shapiro, T. Bishop, & E. Hartnett, Supreme Court Practice §5.12(c)(3), p. 351 (9th ed. 2007). As this Court's Rule 10 informs, "[a] petition for a writ of certiorari is rarely granted when the asserted error [is]... the misapplication of a properly stated rule of law." The Ninth Circuit correctly described the relevant legal rules under AEDPA and Jackson v. Virginia. This Court, therefore, has no law-clarifying role to play. Its summary adjudication seems to me all the more untoward for these reasons: What is now known about shaken baby syndrome (SBS) casts grave doubt on the charge leveled against Smith; and uncontradicted evidence shows that she poses no danger whatever to her family or anyone else in society.

I turn first to the medical evidence presented at trial. Dr. Carpenter, the autopsy supervisor, testified that the following symptoms are consistent with, but not required for, a diagnosis of SBS: cerebral edema, subdural hemorrhage, retinal hemorrhage, bleeding at the joints of the back of the neck, bruises on the arms, fractures of the ribs, and internal injuries to the buttocks, abdominal organs, and chest organs. Tr. 575. Few of these signs of SBS were present here. Etzel's subdural hemorrhage and subarachnoid hemorrhage were "minimal," insufficient to cause death. Id., at 540-541, 557-558, 675, 693, 700, 729, 1484-1485. There was no brain swelling and no retinal hemorrhage in either eye. Id., at 580, 693, 802, 1274.1 Similarly absent were any fractures, sprains, bleeding in the joints. or displacement of joints. Id., at 682. A "tiny" abrasion on the skin and a corresponding bruise under the scalp did not produce brain trauma. Id., at 555, 562, 576, 712-713.

These findings led Dr. Carpenter, the autopsy supervisor, and Dr. Erlich, who performed Etzel's autopsy, to rule out two commonly proffered causes of death in SBS cases: massive bleeding and massive swelling that create pressure and push the brain downward. Id., at 541, 551-552, 729-730, 801. Instead, they opined, Etzel's death was caused by direct injury-shearing or tearing of the brainstem or the brain itself. Id., at 694-696, 729-730, 801, 1298. The autopsy revealed no physical evidence of such injury, either grossly or microscopically. Id., at 730, 763. 803-804, 1298-1299. Dr. Carpenter was unable to state which particular areas of the brain were injured, and the neuropathologist found no evidence of specific brain injury. Id., at 696, 1475. No doctor located any tear. Indeed, the examining physicians did not cut open Etzel's brainstem, or submit it to neuropathology, because, in their own estimation, "[w]e wouldn't have seen anything anyway." Id., at 803, 1299.2

Neither doctor testified to ever having performed an autopsy on an infant in which a similar conclusion was reached. Nor did either physician point to any medical literature supporting their belief that shearing or tearing of the brainstem or the brain itself caused Etzel's death. Id., at 694–696, 801–802. Dr. Carpenter nevertheless maintained that when there is subdural hemorrhage without signs of external trauma to the head or skull, the injury is necessarily caused by violent shaking. Id., at 576–577, 660–661. Smith's conviction thus turned on, as Dr. Erlich put it, "direct trauma which we don't see to the brainstem." Id., at 801. That this gave the Ninth Circuit pause is understandable. Dr. Erlich herself conceded that "[i]t is a difficult concept to absorb." Id., at 1298.

Reason to suspect the Carpenter-Erlich thesis has grown in the years following Smith's 1997 trial. Doubt has increased in the medical community "over whether infants can be fatally injured through shaking alone." State v. Edmunds, 2008 WI App. 33, ¶15, 308 Wis. 2d 374, 385, 746 N. W. 2d 590, 596. See, e.g., Donohoe, Evidence-Based Medicine and Shaken Baby Syndrome, Part I: Literature Review, 1966-1998, 24 Am. J. Forensic Med. & Pathology 239, 241 (2003) (By the end of 1998, it had become apparent that "there was inadequate scientific evidence to come to a firm conclusion on most aspects of causation, diagnosis, treatment, or any other matters pertaining to SBS," and that "the commonly held opinion that the finding of [subdural hemorrhage] and [retinal hemorrhagel in an infant was strong evidence of SBS was unsustainable."); Bandak, Shaken Baby Syndrome: A Biomechanics Analysis of Injury Mechanisms, 151 Forensic Sci. Int'l 71, 78 (2005) ("Head acceleration and velocity levels commonly reported for SBS generate forces that are far too great for the infant neck to withstand without injury.... [A]n SBS diagnosis in an infant ... without cervical spine or brain stem injury is questionable and other causes of the intracerebral injury must be considered."); Minns, Shaken Baby Syndrome: Theoretical and Evidential Controversies, 35 J. Royal College of Physicians of Edinburgh 5, 10 (2005) ("[D]iagnosing 'shaking' as a mechanism of injury . . . is not possible, because these are unwitnessed injuries that may be incurred by a whole variety of mechanisms solely or in combination."); Uscinski, Shaken Baby Syndrome: An Odyssey, 46 Neurol. Med. Chir. (Tokyo) 57, 59 (2006) ("[T]he hypothetical mechanism of manually shaking infants in such a way as to cause intracranial injury is based on a misinterpretation of an experiment done for a different purpose, and contrary to the laws of injury biomechanics as they apply specifically to the infant anatomy."); Leestma, Case Analysis of Brain-Injured Admittedly Shaken Infants, 54 Cases, Forensic Med. & Pathology 199, 211 (2005) ("[M]ost of the pathologies in allegedly shaken babies are due to impact injuries to the head and body."); Squier, Shaken Baby Syndrome: The Quest for Evidence, 50 Developmental Med. & Child Neurology 10, 13 (2008) ("[H]ead impacts onto carpeted floors and steps from heights in the 1 to 3 feet range result in far greater . . . forces and accelerations than shaking and slamming onto either a sofa or a bed.").

In light of current information, it is unlikely that the prosecution's experts would today testify as adamantly as they did in 1997. Noteworthy in this regard, prosecution witnesses Carpenter and Erlich testified that the belated diagnosis of old (i.e., chronic) blood in Etzel's brain and around his optic nerves did not change their initial causeof-death findings, because rebleeding of old subdural blood does not occur in infants. Tr. 608–609, 672–673, 721–722, 771, 776, 1269–1270, 1283. Recent scientific opinion undermines this testimony. See Miller & Miller, Overrepresentation of Males in Traumatic Brain Injury of Infancy and in Infants with Macrocephaly, 31 Am. J. Forensic Med. & Pathology 165, 170 (2010) ("Small, asymptomatic [subdural hematomas] from the normal trauma of the birth process can spontaneously rebleed or rebleed with minimal forces, enlarge, and then present with clinical symptoms and [subdural hematoma, retinal hemorrhages, and neurologic dysfunction in the first year of life. ... [This situation] mimic[s] child abuse, and we believe many such infants in the past have been mistakenly diagnosed as victims of child abuse, when they were likely not."). What is now known about SBS hypotheses seems to me worthy of considerable weight in the discretionary decision whether to take up this tragic case.

I consider next the State's meager nonmedical evidence. There was no evidence whatever that Smith abused her grandchildren in the past or acted with any malicious intent on the night in question. Instead, the evidence indicated that Smith was warm hearted, sensitive, and gentle. Tr. 1086. As earlier observed, see supra, at 1, the Magistrate Judge noted the absence of any motive or precipitating event that might have led Smith to shake Etzel violently. Although shaking may quiet a crying child, Tr. 601, no evidence showed that Etzel was crying in the hours before he died, id., at 444. To the contrary: Any loud crying likely would have woken Etzel's siblings, Yondale, age 14 months, and Yolanda, age 4, asleep only feet away, even Etzel's mother, Tomeka, asleep in the neighboring room. Id., at 335, 358–361. Yet no one's slumber was disturbed. Id., at 358–361.

The prosecution relied on the testimony of a social worker, who asserted that Smith, after hearing that the cause of Etzel's death had been changed from Sudden Infant Death Syndrome (SIDS) to shaken baby syndrome, id., at 840, and after stating that she had given Etzel "a little shake, a jostle to awaken him" when she found him unresponsive, asked "something like 'Oh, my God. Did I do it? Did I do it? Oh, my God." Id., at 842, 847.3 Etzel's mother, Tomeka, contradicted this account. According to Tomeka, after the social worker accused Smith of killing Etzel, Smith started crying, id., at 429-430, and responded, "No, I didn't," id., at 387. Taking the social worker's version of events as true, Smith's distraught and equivocal question fairly cannot be equated to a confession of guilt. Giving a baby "a little shake, a jostle to wake him," ante, at 2 (internal quotation marks omitted), after finding him unexpectedly unresponsive, surely is not an admission to shaking a child violently, causing his brainstem to tear.

³The social worker also testified that Etzel's mother, Tomeka, told Smith: "If it wasn't for you this wouldn't have happened." Id., at 847. Tomeka denied making any statement to that effect. Id., at 389.

Moreover, Smith's counsel, Ubiwe Eriye, represented her poorly at trial. In a case as trying as this one, competent counsel might have persuaded the jury to disbelieve the prosecution's case. A few examples from the record are illustrative. At the suppression hearing, the presiding judge was so disturbed about Eriye's preparation for trial that he remarked to the defendant, "Miss Smith, I'm scared." Tr. A52. Eriye badly misportrayed the burden of proof when he declared, both at the suppression hearing and in his opening remarks, that he would prove, beyond a shadow of a doubt, that Smith was not guilty. Id., at A58–A59, 213. The two experts Eriye called presented testimony that hardly meshed.

In sum, this is a notably fact-bound case in which the Court of Appeals unquestionably stated the correct rule of law. It is thus "the type of case in which we are most inclined to deny certiorari." Kyles v. Whitley, 514 U. S. 419, 460 (1995) (SCALIA, J., dissenting). Nevertheless, the Court is bent on rebuking the Ninth Circuit for what it conceives to be defiance of our prior remands. See ante, at 8. I would not ignore Smith's plight and choose her case as a fit opportunity to teach the Ninth Circuit a lesson.

But even if granting review qualified as a proper exercise of our discretionary authority, I would resist summary reversal of the Court of Appeals' decision. The fact-intensive character of the case calls for attentive review of the record, including a trial transcript that runs over 1,500 pages. Careful inspection of the record would be aided by the adversarial presentation that full briefing and argument afford. See, e.g., R. Fallon, J. Manning, D. Meltzer, D. Shapiro, Hart and Wechsler's The Federal Courts and the Federal System 1480 (6th ed. 2009) (posing question whether summary reversal would "smack of unfairness to the losing party unless an opportunity were afforded for the filing of briefs on the merits"); Gressman, Supreme Court Practice §6.12(c), p. 417, and n. 46 (questioning the Court's reliance on its own examination of the record in summarily reversing, without at least affording the parties, "particularly the respondent," an opportunity to brief the critical issue and identify the relevant portions of the record). Peremptory disposition, in my judgment, is all the more inappropriate given the grave consequences of upsetting the judgment below: Smith, who has already served ten years, will be returned to prison to complete a sentence of fifteen years to life. Before depriving Smith of the liberty she currently enjoys, and her family of her care, I would at least afford her a full opportunity to defend her release from a decade's incarceration.

⁴Eriye has since resigned from the California Bar with discipline charges pending.

⁵Dr. Goldie testified that the old blood in Etzel's brain did not contribute to his death, and Etzel died of SIDS. Id., at 994–995, 1403. In contrast, Dr. Siegler testified that the old blood provided the basis for his conclusion that Etzel died of an earlier brain trauma, id., at 1152–1153, 1166–1167, not SIDS, id., at 1193–1194.

For the reasons stated, justice is not served by the Court's exercise of discretion to take up this tragic, fact-bound case. I would therefore deny the petition for review.
